IN EAST TWENTY STATUS TREET,

NEW YORK, NOV. 29, 1889.

B. THORLEY'S FOOD FOR SIT—I have used the article called "Thorley's Food for Cattle," for my horses, and have no heatstoin in saving that it is one of the most beneficial articles for the useful purposes that it is designed to promote, that has ever been presented to the public. In my business as farmer in Rengland, and in the business of my extensive distillery in New York. I have for the last thirty-six years had occasion to use horses, and I unbesitatingly declare that your food for them is the most economical, as well as the most nutritious and spiriting, that has ever been offered to the public in the course of my whole experience with horses. I do not give this testimonial for any handsneyed purpose, but as a just appreciation on my part for one of the best things that could be desired for the besenft of a noble and useful animal to man, and as an evidence of my own sincerity in my opinion (if any further is wanting) I wish you to send me the same quantity as was contained in my previous order. Very respectfully, your send me the same quantity for the previous of the properties.
